

How long will we keep your personal information?

Your personal information will be stored on a local hard drive as well as backup media such as DVDs.

We will keep your personal information for a period of ten years, at which point it will be assessed for transfer to an appropriate archival institution. If we identify your data as a candidate for archival transfer, we will make every effort to inform you that this is the case. Alternatively, if your data is not identified as suitable for archival transfer, it will be securely destroyed.

Your rights:

1. You have the right to be informed about how your information will be used.
2. You have the right to access your personal information. You should submit your request in writing to the Local Voices address or e-mail address listed at the top of this form.
3. You have the right to ask us to correct inaccurate or incomplete information.
4. Where your information has been processed based on consent, you have the right to ask us to have your personal information erased.
5. You have the right to ask us to limit the ways we use or share your information.
6. You have the right to ask us to move, copy or transfer your information to another organisation in an electronic format.
7. You have the right to object to the ways we process your information where it is processed on the basis of historical research.
8. In circumstances where your data is processed automatically, without human intervention, you have the right to certain protections.

You can find more information about data protection and your rights on the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) website at <http://www.ico.gov.uk>.

Complaints:

We take your privacy seriously, and we would like to know about your concerns so that we can address them as soon as possible. If you wish to make a complaint, we recommend that you contact us via the details listed above.

If we are unable to resolve the issue to your satisfaction, you have the right to complain to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO). You can find further information about raising a concern with the ICO on their website: <https://ico.org.uk/concerns/>.
